

Arkin University of Creative Arts and Design
Scientific Research Principles
PART 1
General Provision/Scientific Research and Artistic Activities Incentives

Purpose	1.	The aim of Arkin University of Creative Arts and Design principles is to promote scientific research and artistic activities and determine the principles to be applied to support the scientific research studies and artistic activities of university faculty members at national and international levels and to promote production.
Scope	2.	Principles for promoting Scientific Research and Artistic Activities; scientific research projects in accordance with the criteria, scientific publications and artistic activities, participation in scientific meetings, research permit and the principles of application regarding the support of other scientific research and artistic activities that the Rectorate deems appropriate. In the context of academic promotion, the activities relevant to the fields of science or art are integral components of faculty members' academic endeavors.

General Principles:	3.	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Applications will be accepted from full-time ARUCAD academic staff for activities and publications produced during the current academic year. 2. Payments to scientific research and arts activities within the scope of incentive principles will be evaluated within the framework of the amount allocated for the relevant budget and priority will be given to applications who have not previously benefited from the incentive or have benefited the least. 3. If the budget for the academic year is fully used, the incoming applications will not be evaluated. 4. All research work/art related activities must be affiliated under the name of Arkin University of Creative Arts and Design (ARUCAD). 5. In cases where there is more than one ARUCAD staff member involved in a publication, the award is distributed equally among the authors. 6. If the publication to be supported has more than one author with an institution address, the financial incentive is provided by dividing the number of authors with ARUCAD address + 1. 7. For the publication award to be issued, the eligible staff must be employed as academic staff at ARUCAD on the date of application, and the full text of the article must be published. 8. To qualify for an award, applicants must submit an application to the Research Center by completing the appropriate form. 9. The submitted application is assessed based on the mentioned criteria and approved by the Rectorate.
Financial Support Conditions for Scientific and Artistic Activities:	Articles	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. PART II

Administrative Support

Credit Reduction	our institution provides specific administrative support for interdisciplinary research teams within applicable disciplines, particularly through funding and academic rewards aimed at fostering collaboration and innovation, as outlined in our institutional bylaw. We actively contribute to research studies by offering relevant and timely topics for investigation, which helps facilitate collaborative efforts across various fields and encourages diverse perspectives in research. Additionally, for lecturers from ARUCAD who aspire to publish their paper in prestigious journals such as SSCI, AHCI, and SCIE, the university supports their endeavors by allowing them to deduct 3 credit hours in the semester in which they allocate their research resources, in accordance with our bylaw provisions. This flexibility enables them to dedicate more time and focus to their research projects, thereby enhancing their chances of successful publication. By providing this type of support, we not only alleviate their academic workload but also promote a thriving interdisciplinary research environment. Overall, our commitment to fostering interdisciplinary collaboration enriches the academic experience for our academicians/ researchers and contributes to the advancement of knowledge across multiple disciplines.
